

IT'S THE SPECTACULAR
BALLYMONEY MUSEUM
STONE AGE FUN DAYS

Monday 10 - Friday 14 August 2009

IT'S MESO-NEO-MEGALITHIC FUN!

A Stone Age Fun Day is an opportunity for children aged 7-11 years old to enjoy learning about life 9,000 years ago. The daily workshops run from 10.00am-4.30pm and places are available for only 30 children each day.

Children must bring a packed lunch.

Each Stone Age Fun Day includes:

- An entertaining introduction to archaeology
- Flint knapping demonstration
- Spear making & boar hunting
- Wattle making & weaving
- Tomb building
- Cave painting
- Jewellery and badge making using Stone Age materials and designs
- 'Ask the Expert' sessions with our Archaeologist
- Using a quern stone to grind corn
- Pot making & decoration
- Displays & exhibits
- Prizes for best colouring in and other activities

The Stone Age Fun Day programme will be held in Ballymoney Town Hall and children will also visit Ballymoney Museum.

The "Stone Age Fun Day" programme is not suitable for children younger than 7 years old.

The cost per child is £5.

To book a place on one of the days, please contact Ballymoney Town Hall, 1 Townhead Street, Ballymoney.
